YOUNG AMERICAN PATRIOTS

The Youth of Virginia in World War II

*Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!
Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned,
As home his footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign strand!—SCOTT.*

Foreword

THAT Americans may never forget their debt of gratitude to those heroes and heroines who offered their lives in defense of their country in her hour of greatest need is the primary purpose of this book. Another purpose is to present a work which will be a source of pleasure to the service men and women and their families and friends; and we believe we are accomplishing this purpose by making it possible for them to have in one volume the likenesses of the service men and women as they are at the time they are playing their part in the Second World War. Such a work will become more highly treasured with time, because the inevitable separations will cause the pictures of comrades and friends to be more cherished in the future.

The publishers wish that their work may not only be a source of pleasure to those who participated in the War, but that it may impress upon all the fact that Americans in the critical period since the attack on Pearl Harbor have shown the same courage and devotion that animated our country's heroes in earlier periods of our history. The nation whose life began with the Declaration of Independence has seen its sons and daughters offering their lives in defense of the Four Freedoms wherever they have been threatened by those who would destroy them.

The services and sacrifices of the heroes of 1941 and subsequent years must not be in vain. Our greatest hope is that a new world of freedom and goodwill may be attained. No other goal is worthy of the sacrifices of those to whom so much is owed by so many.

WORLD WAR II COST:

In human lives: European and Pacific combat casualties of the United States Army and Navy included:

Killed	252,885
Wounded	651,218
Missing	43,969
Prisoners	122,747

Among the wounded were:

17,300 surgical amputations
7,300 deafened to some degree
1,190 blinded in one or both eyes.

In money, the war cost:

The United States	$287,181,000,000
Russia	$135,856,000,000
(nearest Allied competitor to U. S. in spending)
Germany	$280,000,000,000
Japan	$ 49,154,000,000

United States agriculture produced 20 billion dollars worth of food for the armed forces, lend-lease and foreign relief. Agriculture production reached a peak increase of 35 per cent over the pre-war level, despite military drains on manpower.

The nation's manufacturing facilities expanded to a cost of $20,300,000,000. This included more than 13,000 facility additions, with the major share of the cost coming from public financing.

In the munitions industry alone, a peak of 10,300,000 workers was reached. This meant approximately one munitions-maker for each man in the Army and Navy.

As the United States entered the final year of the war, it was producing 45 per cent of the world's munitions. Synthetic rubber production in the U. S. had been raised from 8,000 tons in 1941 to 753,000 tons in 1944. Aluminum output from 1942 to 1944 was trebled.

The United States Navy became a two-ocean armada of more than 100,000 vessels of all types, including 1,500 fighting ships, making up a fleet larger than the combined navies of the rest of the world. Just before the end of the war, the Navy announced a total of 431 naval vessels lost.

Of 60,000,000 deadweight tons of merchant ships produced in American shipyards, 7,000,000 tons were lost. From December, 1942, to the end of the war, 223,444 aircraft of all types were produced in this country. This figure includes 184,433 tactical craft.

The Army alone obtained 119,400 tanks, armored cars and self-propelled vehicles, 1,116,000 artillery pieces of all types, 18,900,000 small arms, 180,000 tractors, bulldozers and other construction equipment; 2,400,000 trucks (including 660,000 jeeps), 1,700,000 radio sets of all types, 2,660,000 telephones, 29,000,000 tents (which includes "shelter-halves" or two-piece pup-tents), 117,000,000 pairs of shoes and 7,000 locomotives.

Civilian volunteers gave a total of 13,300,000 pints of blood at blood donor centers. Civilians lived under Office of Price Administration price regulations applying to some eight million articles and services.

The nation's railroads handled some 32,000,000 Army troops in organized movements.

(These figures are complete through Sept. 1, 1945.)
